

NOTES ON CONTRIBUTORS

Hanna Jakubowicz Batoréo, Ph. D. is the head of DLCP at the Open University of Lisbon, since March, 2002. She has developed an intense activity in long distance programs, teaching Language Development (1500 students enrolled in 1998-2002). She lectured and advised master degree dissertations in the interchange program Socrates, belonging to the Open University, namely to Polish students. Among her publications may be cited her Ph.D. dissertation (2000) Expressão do espaço no português europeu. Contributo psicolinguístico para o estudo da linguagem e cognição. Lisbon: Fundação Calouste Gulbenkian; (1999) Reference Mechanisms in Children's oral and written narratives at the age of ten. In M. G. pinto & J. Veloso (Eds.) , Psycholinguistics on the threshold of the year 2000, Proceedings of the 5th International Congress of the International Society of Applied Linguistics (pp. 265-270). Porto: Faculdade de Letras da Univ. do Porto. Correspondence should be addressed to:

Hanna Jakubowicz Batoréo
Universidade Aberta
Lisbon, Portugal
e-mail: hanna@univ-ab.pt

Ilha do Desterro	Florianópolis	nº 43	p.207-214	jul./dez. 2002
------------------	---------------	-------	-----------	----------------

Anat Blass received her B.A and M.A degrees in Special Education from Tel Aviv University in Israel. In her thesis she examined spontaneous language samples of preschool Hebrew-Speaking Children. The thesis subject was: Verb Inflection in Hebrew-Speaking Children with Specific Language Impairment. During 1995 – 1997 she was a research assistant in a team led by Prof. Ester Dromi in a cross-linguistic study of Morphological Deficits in Specific Language Impairment in children, which was conducted by Prof. Laurence Leonard of Purdue University. Correspondence should be addressed to:

Anat Blass
School of Education, Tel Aviv University
Ramat Aviv
Tel Aviv, Israel, 69978
Fax: 972-3-648-8571

Augusto Buchweitz holds a Bachelor's degree in Portuguese and English from the Universidade Federal do Rio Grande do Sul (UFRGS) and is currently doing his doctoral degree in English at the Universidade Federal de Santa Catarina. Augusto Buchweitz is under the supervision of Dr. Lêda Tomitch and his research interests are in the area of reading comprehension, individual differences in working memory, and the task of translating. Correspondence should be addressed to:

Augusto Buchweitz
Rua Coronel Camisão, 72
90540-050 Porto Alegre, RS
Brazil
e-mail: buchweitz@terra.com.br

Hans W. Dechert, born in Giessen, Germany in 1929, had his academic training at the universities of Marburg and Frankfurt, Germany, and Franklin College of Indiana and Harvard University, USA between 1948 and 1955. He received his Ph.D. in the J.W.Goethe Universitaet Frankfurt in 1954.

From 1955 to 1961 he began his teaching career in German grammar schools. From 1958 on he taught at the universities of Giessen and Kassel, Germany, and Douglass College-Rutgers University, New Brunswick, NJ, USA. In 1979/80 he acted as Dean of the Department of Modern Languages at the University of Kassel. He retired in 1997. At present he is adjunct professor at the University of Katowice, Poland.

For several years he has been Secretary General of ISAPL (the International Society of Applied Psycholinguistics), and is one of the founding members of EUROSLA (the European Society of Second Language Acquisition)

His research and publications focus on various aspects of the psychology and applied psycholinguistics of language acquisition and processing. Correspondence should be addressed to:

Hans W. Dechert
Urbanstrasse 43, D-14 165
Berlin
Germany
e-mail: hdechert@t-online.de

Annick De Houwer is Associate Professor of Communication at the University of Antwerp in Belgium. She has worked on sociolinguistic and psycholinguistic aspects of Dutch child language, but has mainly specialized in bilingual acquisition in young children (see for instance her monograph The Acquisition of Two Languages from Birth: a Case Study (published by Cambridge University Press) and her chapter on 'Bilingual Acquisition' in the Handbook of Child Language). Her current research is primarily focused on finding connections between language input and bilingual development, both on a macro- and a micro-level. She is coordinating a longitudinal research project on 60 mono- and bilingual (French-Dutch) families in Flanders (in cooperation with Dr. Marc Bornstein, National Institutes of Health, Washington).

Dr. De Houwer has served in various professional associations, including the International Association of Applied Linguistics (AILA) and the International Association for the Study of Child Language (IASCL). She is an Advisory Member of the Multilingual Affairs Committee of the International Association of Logopedics and Phoniatrics (IALP). She is on the editorial board of the journals Parenting, the International Journal of Bilingualism and Bilingual Education, and the International Review of Applied Linguistics. Together with Steven Gillis, Dr. De Houwer is General Editor of the IASCL book series 'Trends in Language Acquisition Research' (John Benjamins Publishing Company). She is also General Editor of the John Benjamins series 'IMPACT: Studies of Language and Society'. Correspondence should be addressed to:

Annick De Houwer, Ph.D.
Associate Professor
UIA-PSW - UNIVERSITY OF Antwerp
Universiteitsplein 1
B2610-Antwerpen Belgium
Tel +32-3 8202863/FAX: +32-3-8202882
e-mail: vhouwer@uia.ac.be

Esther Dromi is Chairperson of the Department of Human Development and Education at Tel Aviv University, School of Education. She obtained her Ph.D at The University of Kansas, USA in 1982. Among many other invitations, she was a Senior Research Scientist (1997- 2000) at the University of Texas at Dallas, School of Human Development, The Callier Center for Communication Disorders. Prof. Dromi belongs to the editorial board of International Journal of language and Communication. Among her major publications in the last five years, may be cited the book Dromi, E. & Ringwald Frimerman, D. (1996). Communication and language intervention with hearing impaired children: The prelinguistic stage. Tel Aviv, Israel: Tel Aviv University: Ramot, (Hebrew); the article Leonard, L.B., Dromi, E. ,Adam, G. & Zadoneisky-Erlich, S. (2000) .Tense and finiteness in the speech of children with Specific Language Impairment acquiring Hebrew. International Journal of Language and Communication Disorders, 35, 319-335 and the chapter Dromi, E. (2002) Babbling and early words . In N.J. Salkind .& L. Margolis. .Child Development: Volume 1 of the Macmillan Psychology Reference Series. NY: Macmillan Reference USA. Pp. 45-47. Correspondence should be addressed to:

Esther Dromi
School of Education, Tel Aviv University
Ramat Aviv
Tel Aviv, Israel, 69978
Fax: 972-3-648-8571
e-mail: dromi@post.tau.ac.il

Francisco Gomes de Matos was Born in Crato, Ceará, Brazil and is Full Professor at the Department of Letters, Federal University of Pernambuco. He received a Ph.D. in Applied Linguistics from the Pontifical University of São Paulo (PUCSP) and an MA from the University of Michigan. For many years Prof. Gomes de Matos was the Director of the Applied Linguistics Center Yazigi and lectured at PUCSP. He was also Visiting Professor at the University of São Paulo and at the Museum of Anthropology of Mexico, University of Ottawa and a Fulbrighter at Georgia/ Athens. Prof. Gomes de Matos is now devoted to the research of Crosscultural Linguistic Rights and Peace Linguistics. His more recent publication is Comunicar para o bem. Rumo à paz comunicativa. (São Paulo: Editora Ave Maria, 2002). Correspondence should be addressed to:

Dr. Francisco Gomes de Matos
Departamento de Letras - Centro de Artes e Comunicação
UFPe – Cidade Universitária
50670-901 Recife, PE
BRAZIL
e-mail: fcfgm@hotmail.com.br

Vilson J. Leffa received his Ph.D. from the University of Texas at Austin and is currently Associate Professor at the Catholic University of Pelotas, Brazil. He has published articles on Natural Language Processing (lexical disambiguation, anaphora resolution, machine translation) and edited a series of books on Applied Linguistics topics. His main interest at the moment is the research and development of authoring systems for language teaching on-line. Correspondence should be addressed to:

Vilson J. Leffa
Mestrado em Letras - UPel
Rua Félix da Cunha, 412
96010-000 Pelotas, RS, Brasil
e-mail: leffa@via-rs.net

José Luiz Meurer is Professor of English and Applied Linguistics at Universidade Federal de Santa Catarina, Florianópolis, Brazil. He holds a Ph.D. in Linguistics from Georgetown University and was a visiting researcher at the University of Birmingham, UK, where he also taught courses in discourse analysis. He is the author of Aspects of Language in Self-help Counseling (1998) and co-author of Parâmetros de Textualização (1997), and Gêneros Textuais (2002). He is interested in systemic functional linguistics, critical discourse analysis, genre studies, and the integration of sociological theories to explain the interdependence between language and other forms of social practice. Correspondence should be addressed to:

José Luiz Meurer
DLLE-CCE-UFSC
Campus Universitário Trindade
88049-900 Florianópolis, SC, Brazil
e-mail: meurerjl@uol.com.br

Maria da Graça Lisboa Castro Pinto is Full Professor of Applied Linguistics at the University of Porto, Portugal. She has worked on Psycholinguistics and Neurolinguistics and her current research is focused on reading techniques and language learning methods in improving oral language; ICT implications in learning setting and hypertext in language education. Dr. Pinto was awarded with the Scientific Gulbenkian Prize in 1986 (doctoral dissertation Abordagem a alguns aspectos da compreensão verbal na criança. Estudo psicolinguístico genético do Token Test e de materiais de metodologia complementar, published by INIC (1988). She is Responsible Advisor in many courses at the University of Porto, such as Portuguese Linguistics, Psycholinguistics, Psycholinguistics and Learning Languages Seminar and also of the Phonetic and Psycholinguistics Laboratory at the same University. Dr. Pinto was Secretary General of the International Society of Applied Psycholinguistics (ISAPL) and organized its 5th Congress., being now its treasurer. Dr. Pinto has been invited as an Advisory Member in many occasions by different institutions such as the Department of Neurology and Neuro-surgery of the Hospital São João (Porto); JNICT (Learned Council of Science and Technology of Portugal); Calouste Gulbenkian Foundation and People to People International. Correspondence should be addressed to:

Maria da Graça Pinto
Universidade do Porto
Via Panorâmica s/n
4150 Porto - Portugal
e-mail: mglcp@clix.pt

José Marcelino Poersch holds a Ph.D. in Applied Linguistics, 1983, (PUCRS) and completed his post-doctoral studies in Cognitive Linguistics at UC-Berkeley. He teaches Cognitive Linguistics and Applied Psycholinguistics at the graduate program of the Pontifical Catholic University (PUCRS-BRAZIL). His present researches are directed to the cognitive process of reading and writing in a connectionist approach. Recent publications are Psycholinguistics: science and art (2000) and Consciousness and meta-cognition in the teaching/learning process of language (1998). Correspondence should be addressed to:

José Marcelino Poersch
PUCRS
Av. Ipiranga 6681, Prédio 8, sala 406
90619-900 Porto Alegre, RS, Brasil
e-mail:poerschjm@pucrs.br

Leonor Scliar-Cabral, Esso Prize in Literature, in 1968. Doctor in Linguistics/Psycholinguistics, USP/Brazil, 1977. Taught at the School of Medicine of São Paulo and was Head of the Graduate Course in Linguistics, PUC. Full Professor at UFSC, awarded Notoria Sapientia. Honorary President of ISAPL and its past President. Past President of ABRALIN. Published many scientific and poetry books and hundreds of articles on psycholinguistics. Her last books are (2003) Princípios do sistema alfabético do português do Brasil and Guia prático de alfabetização – Baseado em Princípios do sistema alfabético do português do Brasil. São Paulo: Contexto. Correspondence should be addressed to:

Leonor Scliar-Cabral
Rua São Miguel, 1106
Bairro Saco Grande 1
88030-320 Florianópolis, SC
e-mail: lsc@th.com.br

Celso Henrique Soufen Tumolo holds a Master's Degree in English Language and Literature (UFSC) and is currently a doctoral candidate at the graduate Program in English at UFSC. His research interests include reading comprehension, reading instruction, vocabulary instruction, and reading comprehension assessment. Correspondence should be addressed to:

Celso Henrique Soufen Tumolo
Rua Aurea Cruz 372 Bl. 04 Apto 408 - Estreito
CEP 88070160 – Florianópolis SC – Brazil
Phone: 48 9951 4944
e-mail: celsohst@matrix.com.br