To whom may read

It is with great satisfaction that we bring you another issue of Texto Digital. Another issue that, in the words of old Nietzsche, is a symptom of an occurrence in the depths of the world. In our case, symptom that in the depths of the digitalized world a multitude of thoughts and perspectives are processed; a torrent of potentialities that are here actualized in the form of reflections which we strive to bring to you, dear readers.

Seven are the contributions published by students and researchers in this issue of Texto Digital. Each represents a possibility within interminable passages from the virtual to the actual brought fourth by the textuality in the electronic medium.

Good reading!

Cordially,

Enrique V. Nuesch.
